

Australian Privacy Principles.

The Commonwealth Privacy Act was amended in 2012 and from March 2014 will incorporate 13 Australian Privacy Principles that set out the rules for the handling of personal information in Australia. The Australian Privacy Principles replace the previous 10 National Privacy Principles.

In the interests of providing quality health care this practice has developed a privacy policy that complies with the privacy legislation and the Australian Privacy Principles

The provision of quality health care is our principal concern. It requires a doctor patient relationship of trust and confidentiality. Your doctor regards patient health information as confidential and will only collect this information with patient consent.

A patient's personal information is handled in accordance with the practice's privacy policy and consistent with the privacy legislation. Patients are entitled to know what person information is held about them; how and under what circumstances they may have access to it; why it is held; its use; to whom and under what circumstances it may be disclosed; when consent is required for these purposes; and how it is stored.

Every effort will be made to discuss these matters with patients at the time personal health information is collected from patients attending this practice. Because there will be occasions when it is not practical to make patients aware of these matters at the time of collection this brochure is designed to outline how this practice endeavours to protect the privacy of patients' personal health information.

Correction.

Where necessary, patient's will be given the opportunity to amend any personal information held by the practice that is incorrect.

Where the practice receives a request in relation to any of the Australian Privacy Principles outlined, it is generally accepted that the practice will respond within 30 days of the request being received.

Information about the Australian Privacy Principles is available online at: www.oaic.gov.au – Fact Sheet 17

The Victorian Health Records Act 2001 is available online at: www.health.vic.gov.au

Complaints.

Patients should feel free to discuss any concerns, questions or complaints about any issues related to the privacy of their personal information with their doctor. If a patient remains dissatisfied you can contact the Health Complaints Commissioner.

26th Floor, 570 Bourke Street, Melbourne Vic 3000

P: 1300 582 113
F: 03 9032 3111
E: hsc@health.gov.vic.au
W: <https://www.health.vic.gov.au/feedback-and-complaints>

Privacy Policy

The
Australian Privacy Principles
at a glance

A Patient Guide

Accredited
General Practice

KENSINGTON HILL MEDICAL CENTRE

2 Kensington Road, P.O. Box 65, Leopold Vic 3224

P: 03 5250 1208 | F: 03 5250 1013 |

W: www.khmc.com.au

Openness.

This practice has made this and other material available to our patients to inform them of our policies on management of personal information. On Request this practice will let patients know, generally, what sort of personal information we hold, for what purposes and how we collect, hold, use and disclose that information.

Anonymity.

A patient has the right to be dealt with anonymously, provided this is lawful and practicable. However, in the medical context this is not likely to be practicable or possible for Medicare and insurance rebate purposes. It could also be dangerous to the patient's health.

Collection of Information.

It is necessary for us to collect personal information from patients and sometimes others associated with their health care in order to attend to their health needs and for associated administrative purposes.

Unsolicited Information.

If we receive personal information and we did not request that information, we will destroy and/or de-identify that information.

Collection – Notification.

If we collect information from our patients it will be used for the purposes outlined.

Use and disclosure.

A patient's personal health information is used or disclosed for purposes directly related to their health care and in ways that are consistent with a patients' expectations. In the interests of the highest quality and continuity of health care this may include sharing information with other health care providers who comprise a patient's medical team from time to time. In addition, there are circumstances when information has to be disclosed without patient consent, such as:

- Emergency situations
- By law, doctors are sometimes required to disclose information for public interest reasons, e.g. mandatory reporting of some communicable diseases.
- Provision of information to Medicare or private health funds, if relevant, for billing and medical rebate purposes.

In general, a patients' health information will not be used for any other purposes without their consent. There are some necessary purposes of collection for which information will be used beyond providing health care, such as professional accreditation, quality assessments, clinical auditing, billing and so forth.

Direct Marketing.

The practice does not use or disclose personal information for the purposes of direct marketing. We will contact you regarding health recalls, appointments, reminders, preventative health measures or similar health related issues.

Cross Border Disclosure.

Except in exceptional circumstances, or with the patient's written consent, we do not send information overseas; if we need to send overseas, we will take steps to protect patient privacy. We do not store any information outside Australia.

Government Identifiers.

These are numbers, letters or symbols that are used to identify patients with or without the use of a name. (e.g. Medicare Numbers). We will limit the use of identifiers assigned to patients by Government agencies to those uses necessary to fulfil our obligations or as required by law.

Information Quality.

All patient information held by this practice relevant to the functions of providing health care will be maintained in a form that is accurate, complete and up to date.

Information Security.

The storage, use and where necessary, transfer of personal health information will be undertaken in a secure manner that protects patient privacy. It is necessary for medical practices to keep patient information after a patient's last attendance for as long as is required by law or is prudent having regard to administrative requirements. Where data is to be destroyed this will be done in a secure manner or in a way to ensure the information is de-identified.

Access to information.

Patient's may request access to their personal health information held by this practice. A fee may apply and access to information in Victoria is covered under the Victorian Health Records Act 2001. There are some circumstances in which access is restricted and in these cases reasons for denying access will be explained. E.g. providing access would pose a serious threat to life prohibited by court order.